

UNIVERSITÀ DEGLI STUDI DI BERGAMO

Dipartimento di Scienze aziendali, economiche e metodi quantitativi
Department of Management, Economics and Quantitative Methods

SEMINAR

Prof. Rachel Baskerville
Victoria University of Wellington

Rachel Baskerville is a professor in the School of Accounting and Commercial Law at Victoria University, Wellington, New Zealand. As well as teaching large first-year classes, she is currently active in research activities pertaining to collective memories in accounting history, and ethnic identities and culture in business research, in particular uses of the Mary Douglas Cultural Framework. She is also active with PhD supervision and editorial activities, reviewing etc and is the joint Editor of Pacific Accounting Review

Tuesday, 17 October 2017

from 12.30 to 14.00

Campus economico-giuridico, via dei Caniana 2 – Room 21

The Douglas Cultural Framework:
invoking ethnicity and culture in research activity

Participation is free

For further information contact: stefania.servalli@unibg.it